

CEBI MICHAELMAS SEMINAR SERIES

All lectures in the CEBI Michaelmas seminar series will be situated in the Violet Butler Room at Barnett House, 32 Wellington Square, Oxford. For directions please follow this link. Lectures begin at 17:00 and are followed by around 30 minutes of questions and discussion.

15th October, 2015

Felix van Urk & Prof. Paul Montgomery, University of Oxford
Challenges to evaluating implementation in complex interventions: the example of Studio Schools

22nd October, 2015

Dr. Heidi Stoeckl, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine
Intimate partner violence and its effect on children

29th October, 2015

Prof. Jonathan Shepherd, Cardiff University
Public health approaches to violence prevention

12th November, 2015

Dr. Daniel Shepherd, Aflatoun International
Curriculum reform and evidence: The case of an RCT of social and financial education for children in Rwanda and the opportunity and challenges around influencing national curriculum reform

19th November, 2015

Dr. Geoff Wong, University of Oxford
What is the point of realist research and why do we need it?

26th November, 2015

Dr. Katherine Elkington, Columbia University
Public Health versus Public Safety? Developing, Implementing and Sustaining a Family-Based HIV/STI Prevention Program for Youth on Probation

3rd December, 2015

Dr. Graham Moore, Cardiff University
Process evaluations of complex interventions: Medical Research Council guidance